

Wellbeing for Leaders

Workshop information

Build resilience and lead with balance under pressure

In today's fast-paced environment, leaders face constant demands that can lead to stress and burnout. Maintaining emotional balance and fostering a positive atmosphere are crucial for personal effectiveness and team performance.

This three-hour workshop equips leaders with practical tools to build resilience, manage stress, and promote wellbeing – for themselves and their teams. As part of the Grounding and Thriving practices of the practive8 model, this session helps participants develop sustainable strategies to lead with strength and balance.

Why wellbeing for leaders matters

Leadership comes with challenges that test emotional resilience and mental wellbeing. Leaders who prioritise their wellbeing can:

- Maintain clarity and focus in high-pressure situations.
- Set an example for their teams to value wellbeing.
- Create a supportive environment that drives long-term success.

As Arianna Huffington wisely said, “Taking care of yourself is the most powerful way to begin to take care of others.”

Workshop features for maximum impact

- 1. Practical resilience techniques
Learn strategies to stay calm under pressure, manage stress, and build emotional balance.
- 2. Actionable wellbeing frameworks
Discover methods to integrate wellbeing into daily leadership practices and team culture.
- 3. Prepare, practise, perfect
Includes pre-work (reflective activities and reading) and post-workshop resources to reinforce learning.
- 4. Tailored to your challenges
A pre-session call ensures the workshop reflects the wellbeing challenges specific to your organisation.
